

Interpreter and Translator Summer Short Courses 2012

International Interpreting Agency is offering its fifth season of Summer Short Courses for interpreters and translators. The courses include professional practice modules, including specialised health and legal modules. The courses offered are:

- * Community Interpreting and Translation for New and Emerging Languages
- * New Graduates' (Orientation)
- * Legal Interpreting
- * Health and Medical Interpreting

The first two modules on community interpreting and translation for new and emerging languages and orientation are targeting speakers of new and emerging languages and recent graduates of interpreting courses. Legal Interpreting and Health and Medical Interpreting Modules are targeting practitioners of interpreting and translation seeking to specialise in the health and medical and legal settings.

Applications for the January/February 2012 Program are currently open. Please e-mail training@languageexperts.com.au for an Information Booklet and an Application Form.

Applications must be received no later than 6th January 2012.
